Back To School Program

At the 14th annual Back to School Program: Lauren Scano, center, of Huntington, an intern at Henry Schein Inc. in Melville helped pack backpacks along with Alexis Nally, left, of North Massapequa and Anthony Horton, right, of Westbury as the company seeks to provide children returning to school with new outfits and backpacks filled with school supplies and hygiene products. This year, the program is supporting more than 2,200 children in 15 U.S. and Canadian cities. Since its creation in 1998, Henry Schein Cares, the Company's global social responsibility program, has served approximately 13,000 children throughout North America. Credit Henry Schein, Inc.
